USEOUR DATA EXPERTISE

Understanding course naming conventions and course recruitment trends, across the sector, can be the first step in deciding whether to introduce or rename a course.

EXACT can help. It is our bespoke data service which reports on historical data and live cycle deadline data across the sector. The service delivers CSV datasets to a particular specification – plug the data into your own systems and carry out your own analysis.

- Use keywords or subjects to identify historic trends of courses, at a provider and applicant level - with data on applications, offers, and acceptances to highlight course popularity, alongside applicant demographics.
- Understand who applies and their geographical location. Identify areas of potential growth or saturation, and how this has changed.
- Understand naming conventions already used, and their popularity – information that may highlight any potential renaming of courses, to increase recruitment in line with those already being offered by other providers.

EXACT Course Trend Data

Are you wanting to understand course trends? Using your own specific keywords? And would like to see how many applications were accepted to study specific subject areas and in what university locations?

Our solution: review the number of applications, offers and acceptances by: Provider Name, Course Name, Course Type, Age Band (5 levels), Applicant Domicile (UK and Global Regions) and Gender - filtered to your specific course keyword/s.

Gain insight on:

- who applies to the courses, and where they come from
- what the courses are named
- which providers are offering the courses, and if they are your direct competitor(s)
- trend analysis across the sector, at applicant, provider and course level
